With its enchanting string of seaside resorts, this Tour de Manche stage exudes a feeling of classic seaside holidays, emphasized by Dinard's splendid coastal villas. Le Passeur, a seabus linking St-Malo to Dinard, allows cyclists to cross the waters by boat here. The attractive rural heritage and a link to St-Jacut-de-la-Mer add to the delights.

The Route

Mostly on roads shared with cars. A greenway links Dinard and Trémereuc, plus there's one following the Canal de l'Arguenon to Plancoët train station.

Links

From the Château du Guildo, there's a link to Plancoët train station via a cycle route following the Arguenon (8km).

Alternative Route

Note that when the St-Malo-Dinard seabus isn't in operation, mid-Nov-early April, you have to take the dangerous route along the dam over the Rance (road RD168), involving a very narrow stretch, plus steps to the footbridge. We strongly advise against trying this with children.

Practical information

Take the St-Malo-Dinard seabus to avoid the dam over the Rance.
